Rooted in Land. Legacy. Community

The Center for Heirs' Property invites you to join us for the 10th Annual Unique Lowcountry Outing & Feast- an outdoor gathering set against the natural beauty of James Island County Park. This event creates an engaging experience that deepens connections to land, heritage, and community.

Through hands-on activities, inspiring stories, educational exhibits, local food, and family fun, guests will experience firsthand how preserving family land strengthens families, communities, and futures.

The Unique Lowcountry Outing & Feast honors the generations who came before us while empowering families to preserve land, wealth, and opportunity for generations to come.

About the Center for Heirs' Property®

Rightfully Home. Rooted in Legacy. Growing the Future.

The Center for Heirs' Property® empowers families and small-acreage landowners to protect what matters most—the roof over their heads and the land under their feet. Through legal services, education, and sustainable land use strategies, CHP helps families secure ownership and turn their land into a generational asset.

Our Vision

A nation where every family can enjoy the legacy of home—securing ownership, protection, and prosperity for generations to come.

Why This Work Matters

Heirs' property is one of the greatest threats to generational landownership. Families without clear title are often unable to fully access capital, disaster relief, home repair resources, or other critical services.

This is more than a legal issue. It is a matter of housing stability, opportunity, economic mobility, family legacy, and the ability to build and transfer generational assets.

An Experience Rooted in Our Mission

The Unique Lowcountry Outing & Feast is more than a fundraising event. It is an opportunity to bring CHP's mission to life.

Landowners and families are at the center of the experience, sharing the land, traditions, and stories that make this work meaningful. Supporters and partners have an opportunity to connect directly with the families and communities impacted by CHP's work, while guests can learn, participate, and experience the importance of protecting family land.

The event will bring together:

- Fellowship and community that create opportunities for landowners, supporters, partners, and families to connect;
- Hands-on activities and family fun that make the experience welcoming and engaging;
- Forestry and land education that demonstrate how sustainable land management can help families protect and grow their assets;
- Stories from landowners and families that illustrate the meaning of land, legacy, and generational ownership;
- Educational exhibits and resources that connect guests with CHP's work and community partners; and
- Lowcountry food and hospitality that bring people together around the table.

Together, these experiences will honor the past while helping families protect land, build wealth, and create opportunities for future generations.
